Sunday din-ner, pass the bread,

Someone says what can't be said, Father reads the morning news, Brother wears the oth-er shoes.

Mother tries to change the tune, Someone's leav-ing way too soon, Every word a lit-tle war,

Chairs are emp-ty, like be - fore. What are we fight - ing for? Same blood, same kitchen door, We don't have to think the same, Just don't leave, you share my name.
